

Sex like in your 20's - Now?

Of Course! You Just Need to Take Enough of the Right Stuff to Regain Your Sexual Potency

Find out what you've been missing just because most sexual performance boosters, especially those found in vitamin stores and pharmacies, contain such tiny amounts of those natural substances proven to restore a man's sexual abilities.

Discover which and how much of each substance you need to bring back those arousals and firm erections - GUARANTEED.

Dear Mature Lover,

You remember those hot, passionate nights? Like your first sexual encounter or your wedding night? We wish we could have what we once had – like being able to experience fulfillment during sexual intercourse.

Your Sexuality is Just Not What It Used To Be.

A second honeymoon or a cruise? Only problem is you're not able to get into that mood for sex like when you were a young man.

Imagine yourself with your lady in a hot tub getting warmed up before taking her to bed. How does that make you feel? Is it anything like even five years ago?

Back in your teens and twenties you could feel an erection coming just fantasizing about some sexy gal you've seen. Many times you'd wake up with a stiff erection.

Now it seems it takes a lot more to get your body to react. It just doesn't seem to get as long and hard as it once did, even when you watch porno flicks.

You want to do something about it. Especially now that you're no longer worried about getting your woman pregnant - and neither is she.

Is there anything to take that really works? Prescriptions? Natural substances?

You're Not Sure about Prescriptions

You might not want to take prescriptions because of their side effects and they might not be safe to take with other drugs. This is especially true if you take heart or blood pressure medications. It's why you need a prescription to get them.

TV commercials caution you of erections lasting longer than four hours, where you might need a painful emergency treatment. Or if you're taking drugs for heart pain, you can experience a drop in blood pressure. On top of that, these prescription meds are expensive, costing as much as $10 a pill. Scares you a bit, doesn't it?

You Prefer a Natural Solution

There are natural products that boost sexual performance without the side effects. Some are derived from plants found in some parts of the world where native people have discovered how eating parts of these plants improved sexual potency. Some are specific amino acids. None were known to cause harm in ordinary doses.

In modern clinical studies, extracts of some of these plant substances were shown to improve a man's ability to get and maintain an erection.

You've Tried A Few Brands, and Were Disappointed

From nutrition and vitamin stores, drugstores, discount stores, there are many male enhancement preparations available. Even more are available online.

I'm sure in the past couple years, you've tried some of those so-called "penis pills". You've found that they don't really work. Even after taking them for two or three weeks. You wonder why.

Why Don't They Work?

They do not give you enough of the ingredients that work. Like taking baby aspirin for a headache. Plain and simple. Just look at the labels on their containers. Some of them list the ingredients and amounts, which are not even half of what were proven effective in studies of natural substances to treat male sexual impotence.

Some of these male enhancement products list so many milligrams (e.g. 1,600) of a "proprietary blend" of nearly a dozen ingredients – not giving the amounts of each substance. You wonder. How can they pack enough of any of these substances into a capsule or two to do you any good?

It's all about marketing to unsuspecting customers.

With history's largest number of Americans approaching retirement age, the market for erectile dysfunction (ED) treatments is HUGE. As the baby boomers get older, the sex booster market keeps growing.

Companies know that customers will realize they don't work and move on to prescriptions for ED. Or some might try other preparations. Even so, there will be thousands more new customers waiting. All it takes is an appealing name and some well-planned media advertising.

Since the right amounts of proven ingredients are rather costly, companies use small amounts of inferior substances. If they work at all it's due to the placebo effect. Their problem was not that bad and they just needed a psychological boost.

What You Need are a Few Ingredients in the Amounts Proven to Work

I'd like to tell you about a preparation that provides the right amounts of each ingredients, but first let me introduce myself. My name is Charlie Foster, Managing Editor at the Institute for Natural Healing. Our research has shown the majority of products found in stores and online contain low quality and/or small amounts of the substances proven to work in restoring sexual potency.

Polypharmacy was never considered good medical practice.

For starters, you don't need a dozen or more ingredients. Sure each one has at one time been used as an aphrodisiac or sex booster. There are factors involved in sexual function like relaxation of certain blood vessels in the penis, stimulation of certain parts of the brain, release of neurotransmitters, etc.

Researchers have found which substances work on each part of the sexual process. Restoring your sexual potency is simply a matter of taking enough of each substance needed. It takes only three or four, certainly not more than five different ingredients for the whole thing to work.

Introducing Prime Performance The One Sex Booster that Doesn't Skimp on Ingredients

Here at the Institute for Natural Healing, we believe in building relationships. This is a sustainable model. If our product really does what it promises, that is giving you back those hard erections and intense feelings of pleasure, wouldn't you keep taking it? Better, wouldn't you recommend Prime Performance to anyone you know who has sex problems?

Researchers at the Institute for Natural Healing have investigated numerous clinical studies of natural substances that were proven to improve a man's sexual potency. They paid particular attention to the quality and amounts of each substance taken. The result was a product with only four ingredients, each in sufficient amounts to deliver the big promise of restoring your youthful sexual capabilities.

Let's Look at an Aphrodisiac Well Known by the Native Peoples of Ancient Peru

Often called the Warrior Root, the Maca plant grows in the Peruvian Andes at altitudes of over 4,000 meters (12,000 feet).

Consuming the root of the Maca plant gave the conquering tribes of Peru the mental stamina and courage to battle their opponents. They also praised maca root's aphrodisiac properties and used maca to treat impotence, infertility and to enhance sex drive. This is why native Peruvians have cultivated this plant for thousands of years.

Maca has been known to treat sexual impotency not only in humans, but also in horses. Spaniards discovered their horses were becoming impotent at such high altitudes and were not reproducing. Natives suggested they feed the horses Maca root and sure enough, the horses became fertile and started producing colts.

Modern day researchers found Maca to increase libido and sex drive as well as improve erectile function. Some natural sex enhancement preparations do contain maca. Problem is, they don't have enough.

Effective Daily Dose of Maca

Researchers found that a good dose is one tablespoon of crude maca root powder per day. This amounts to about the 1,500mg of just the maca extract you get with Prime Performance. Compare that to 1,650mg of the whole mix of what you might have tried before that left you disappointed. Can you see where I'm coming from?

What maca does is to help develop a keen desire for sex and to make sex fulfilling once you engage in the act. Maca apparently acts on parts of the brain having to do with sexual excitement. This in turn stimulates the nerves in the penis, starting up an erection. Maca is also known to be a mood lifter, making it also ideal for managing depression and other undesirable emotions.

Whether you experience fuller, harder erections depends on other factors, mainly your body's ability to produce nitric oxide (NO) in response to stimulation of the blood vessels in the penis.

The Second Ingredient, L-Arginine

Essential for Producing Nitric Oxide

Now here's where Prime Performance goes right to the actual mechanism behind your newfound ability to truly pleasure yourself and your woman in bed.

Nitric Oxide (NO) is the agent that causes the smooth muscles of the spongy network of veins that make up the erectile tissue of the penis to relax. This allows these blood vessels to become engorged with blood, producing an erection.

Where does the nitric oxide come from? Neural stimulation of the blood vessel linings in the erectile tissue to release an enzyme that produces nitric oxide from L-Arginine, an amino acid. Therefore there must be enough L-arginine in the blood for you to have an erection.

The more L-arginine in your blood, the longer and harder your erections will be. But remember, you cannot improve erection without adding L-arginine. Often as men get older, they may have lower L-arginine levels or less enzyme release in the penis, resulting in less release of NO. So you need to add L-arginine to your regimen. How much you ask? Studies have shown that a minimum of 1,500mg dose twice daily will do. Here prime performance goes the extra mile and gives you 2,000mg per dose.

Prime Performance Goes Even Further So You Can Experience Longer Lasting Erections

During erection, L-arginine levels start to fall and need to be replenished. Prime Performance gives you an extra boost by supplying L-Citrulline, which leads to the production of more L-arginine.

This kind of like turbocharges your love mechanism, keeps you going longer and stronger. This is why Prime Performance adds 500mg of L-citrulline to each dose.

And At Last, Something to Maintain General Health And Provide That Extra Stimulation From an Asian Botanical Known to have Numerous Health Benefits

Here's where the final ingredient comes in. Known as the "King of Herbs" in the Far East, Panax Ginseng has been known to improve an individual's over all wellbeing.

Ginseng is known as an adaptogen – a substance that helps your body better cope with stress, physical and psychological. Asians have long used ginseng to improve endurance, athletic and work performance, and of course, improved sexual prowess.

Ginseng is nutritionally rich, containing essential minerals like magnesium, zinc, copper, manganese and phosphorus. It also contains all eight B vitamins. This alone provides for general health support necessary for better sexual performance.

But most important, it contains ginsenosides, which are unique to ginseng. These are stimulants in nature. And just like maca was to ancient Peruvians, many studies among Asian men show improved erectile quality, increased sexual pleasures and improved fertility when taking ginseng.

The general overall body health support of ginseng, together with the sexual stimulation of maca, produce the ultimate rush in anticipation and while engaged in the sex act.

Prime Performance contains the highest percentage standard ginseng extract. The label states standardized to 20% ginsenosides. Other brands use much lower percentages, like 7% some as little as 2%.

In fact, most blends don't give a percentage, if they contain ginseng at all.

In Prime Performance, our highly-concentrated dose of 300mg, 20% extraction gives you 200 to 300% greater potency than other brands. A MUCH higher concentration with a lower dose. That means you get more of the active ingredient without having to take all the "bulk" of the extract.

The extraction percentage is the key. So the more you get, the more you feel.

So Here You Have It.

1,500 mg Maca extract

2,000mg L-Arginine

500mg L-Citrulline

300mg, 20% ginsenoside extract Panax Ginseng

Never seen a label with such "massive amounts" of ingredients? You now wonder "How much is this all going to cost?" Though not cheap, it's only $49 for a month's supply. That's less than your midmorning cup of coffee and a donut or biscuit at your company's cafeteria.

Wouldn't you gladly give up that donut to get back those lovin' feelings? Bring a banana to go with that cup of coffee. Healthier choice. And remember, you're getting Prime Performance straight from the source. Not something that has been sitting on a store shelf for months.

In fact, Prime Performance is not available in stores. Only through this exclusive offer.

And the ingredient label holds the most promise over anything you could try next.

So what more could you ask for?

Oh yes, I get it. You want some guarantee that this will work for you?

I don't blame you. After trying more than one preparation – each one doing practically nothing to improve your sexual relations with your partner in life...

One thing to remember, changes most likely won't occur overnight. So don't book a cruise or that trip to Jamaica just yet. You probably will need to improve your overall health to regain your sexual potency. Here's where Panax Ginseng will help, along with proper diet and exercise, better control of diabetes, if applicable, etc.

For this reason, Institute for Natural Healing is offering not a 30 or 60 day...

but a 90 day guarantee. You just need to give this product a fair chance. Take care not to skip doses, and if you don't once again become that animal in bed within 90 days after ordering, return the unused portion, including empty bottles, and receive a 100% refund of what you paid for whatever size of your order.

You've Got a Whole World of Sexual Pleasure to Look Forward To

What Are You Waiting For?

Check Out Our Order Options

Wishing you fulfilling intimate moments,

Charlie Foster,

Managing Editor at the Institute for Natural Healing.

P.S. You don't need a whole lot of different ingredients. Discover what just four natural substances, in the right amounts, will restore your sexual abilities